

MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

Preparation of your manuscript according to the following guidelines is essential for copyediting and typesetting to proceed without delay. For details regarding illustrations, please see the REQUIREMENTS FOR SUBMITTING ILLUSTRATIONS.

1. Send your acquisitions editor a complete set of Microsoft Word files for your manuscript, including dedication (if desired), table of contents, lists of illustrations, preface/acknowledgments (if appropriate), all chapters with their notes, bibliography, and illustration captions (including credit lines).
2. Front matter, individual chapters (including their notes), bibliography, any other major sections, and any tables should be saved as separate MS Word files (.doc or .docx). Please contact your acquisitions editor regarding variant word-processing programs or application systems.
3. You do not need to send a printout of the manuscript unless it contains Greek, Chinese, or extensive text passages in another non-English language or uses one or more fonts with special characters. In such a case, along with the electronic files, please send us one complete printout of the final manuscript made from the same files.
4. Number each of your illustrations (photos, graphs, charts, line drawings, maps, and/or tables), either in the file names of the digital images or on photocopies or printouts of the illustrations; number the figures to match the captions and any call-outs in the manuscript (see item 8, below).
5. Along with the manuscript, submit—preferably in one package, rather than piecemeal—your final selection of reproduction-quality illustrations (photos, graphs, charts, line drawings, and/or maps), as digital files or original photographs or in another Press-approved form (e.g., art transparencies). Please see the REQUIREMENTS FOR SUBMITTING ILLUSTRATIONS. Please do not embed images or graphics in chapter files. Each table should be typed into its own file. Transferring the digital illustration files via Dropbox or Hightail is best, though you may also ship a thumb drive, CD, or DVD to your acquisitions editor. In the case of maps and certain other illustrations, you may arrange with the Acquisitions Editor to have the cartographer, artist, or source institution send the digital files directly to the Press.
6. Also submit copies of signed letters of permission, if needed, for photographs, maps, tables, figures, or other illustrations, as well as for any textual material requiring permission. Indicate by number which permission documents apply to which illustrations. In the credit line of each figure caption, use the exact wording specified in permission letters.
7. Include in the manuscript separate lists of illustrations, maps, and tables. These will appear in the front matter of your book, following the table of contents, and are not the same as the captions.
8. If illustrations are to be scattered throughout the text, then type into the manuscript call-outs to the typesetter (e.g., <fig. 11 about here> or <table 4.3 about here>). Type these between, not within, paragraphs on their own lines in the manuscript files.
9. Each manuscript file should be double-spaced and left-aligned throughout. (If justified alignment is appropriate, that will be done in typesetting.)

10. Type all text, including titles and headings, in capital and lowercase letters (Like This), not in all capitals (NOT LIKE THIS).
11. Treat subheads within chapters consistently. For example, you may center all first-level subheads (typed in capital and lowercase letters), and place second-level subheads flush left.
12. When quoting 8 lines of text or more of prose, indent from the left margin and drop the quotation marks. Quotes of fewer than 8 lines should be run into the paragraph text.
13. Avoid epigraphs, or limit them to one per chapter. Supply epigraphs for all chapters or for none. DO NOT cite epigraphs with a foot- or endnote. Rather, include a brief source citation at the end of the epigraph.
14. Use MS Word's Insert Footnote/Endnote command to insert chapter endnotes. Leave endnotes embedded within their chapters. DO NOT create a separate file for notes. (The Press will disembed the notes and, for most books, gather them in a notes section at the back of the printed book, preceding the bibliography.)
15. Number the notes beginning with number 1 at the start of each chapter, rather than running sequentially from the beginning of the text to the end.
16. Include the completed Author Information Form with the manuscript if you have not already sent it.

ADDITIONAL GUIDELINES FOR MULTI-AUTHOR WORKS

Permissions/Contributor Agreements

For a multi-author work or edited collection, the volume editor must obtain a contributor agreement from each active contributor to the volume and, for previously published chapters, the publisher's written permission to republish the contributor's work in the present volume. In the CONTRIBUTOR'S AGREEMENT, the author of the chapter assigns rights to the volume editor for reproduction of the author's work. A contributor will not necessarily control the copyright if his or her contribution has already been, or is scheduled to be, published elsewhere; in such a case, permission must be obtained from the publisher of the relevant book or journal.

Source Citations

All authors contributing to the volume should use the same form of source citation. In contrast to single-author works, the notes will appear at the end of each chapter in the printed book.

Bibliography

If the book includes a single, master bibliography, the volume editor should ensure that each contributor has followed the same bibliographic conventions. If the author-date system of citation is used, the volume editor should check each bibliographic reference in the text after compiling the master bibliography, since the process of bibliographic consolidation often results in changes; for example, one contributor's references to "Smith 2000" (which had originally been correct because that contributor cited no other works by Smith published in 2000) may later need to be changed to "Smith 2000a" (because other contributors have cited other works by

Numbering Illustrations

Illustrations in a multi-author work should be numbered consecutively by chapter (e.g., fig. 1.1, fig. 1.2, fig. 1.3, fig. 2.1, fig. 3.1, fig. 3.2, etc.).

List of Contributors

The volume editor should obtain from each contributing author a brief (one or two sentences, at minimum) biographical sketch, including the contributor's full name and professional affiliation. The list of all contributors will appear at the back of the book.
